He was asked if he did not consider t important that any published statements concerning the will should be au-thoritative and accurate.

"I most certainly do," he replied, but my position as attorney does not permit my giving out the information whout direction to do so from my client If Mr. Browning asked me what thought I should state this opinion to him. But it would be indelicate for me to give him the opinion unasked." Mr. Browning niwaelf expressed great surprise that knowledge of his will had become public. He is ill at his home. To O'Neill's for SCHOOL SUPPLIES Stationery and Things That Will Help the Boys and Girls to Do Their Lessons in the Way That Wins High Marks

No worthless, cheap supplies, at prices too low for any pretense at quality, are sold at O'Neill's. Pencils that break every time they are sharpened may sell for 8c or 4c a dozen, but they are not worth anything. You want pencils that sharpen smoothly, write well, keep their points and are good right to the end. That is the kind of pencils O'Neill's sells—and the same principle of quality applies to all O'Neill's school stationery.
